Questions and Answers

What Is Section 503 of the Rehabilitation Act?

§503

What Is the Rehabilitation Act?

For more than 40 years, the Rehabilitation Act has

- Advanced employment opportunities
- Offered extensive services, and
- Promoted accessibility for people with disabilities around the country.

The law works to provide a fair chance for all to live the American Dream, and to break down barriers to equality.

What Is Section 503? (Slide 1 of 2)

Section 503 of the Rehabilitation Act requires that federal contractors and subcontractors – companies doing business with the federal government – take affirmative action to recruit, hire, employ, promote, and retain qualified individuals with disabilities.

The changes, which went into effect March 24, 2014, strengthen the affirmative action provisions of the regulations to aid contractors in their efforts to recruit and hire individuals with disabilities.

What Is Section 503? (Slide 2 of 2)

Affirmative Action

Affirmative action is an action or policy favoring those who tend to suffer from discrimination, especially in relation to employment or education.

§ 503

What Are Some Highlights of Section 503?

Some highlights of Section 503 include:

- Federal contractors must strive to ensure at least 7% of their job groups or workforce, depending on the size of the employer, are employees with disabilities.
- Federal contractors must invite job applicants, and new and current employees, to voluntarily self-identify as having a disability.

Self-Identification and Reasonable Accommodation Notification

What Is Self-Identification?

- Self-identification means that you will be asked to voluntarily identify as an individual with a disability to your employer or potential employer.
- Federal contractors will provide a special self-identification form to applicants and employees.
- You will have the opportunity to self-identify before a job offer is made or after the job offer is made.
- The Voluntary Self-Identification of Disability Form is available online at https://www.dol.gov/ofccp/regs/compliance/sec503/Self\_ID\_Forms/SelfIDForms.htm.

Why Am I Being Asked to Complete This Form?

- To help measure how well federal contractors are doing, applicants and employees will be asked to complete the form, which asks if you have or have ever had a disability.
- Completing this form is voluntary.

Why Am I Being Asked to Complete This Form? (continued)

- Whether you are applying for a job or already work for a federal contractor, any answer you give will be kept private and will not be used against you in any way.
- You may voluntarily self-identify as having a disability on this form without fear of any punishment because you did not identify as having a disability earlier.

How Do I Know If I Have a Disability?

You are considered to have a disability if you:

- Have a physical or mental or medical condition that substantially limits a major life activity, or
- Have a history or record of such an impairment or medical condition.

What Is a Reasonable Accommodation? (Slide 1 of 3)

The Self-Identification Form also includes a Reasonable Accommodation Notice.

What Is a Reasonable Accommodation? (Slide 2 of 3)

- In relation to employment, a reasonable accommodation is any modification or adjustment to a job, or the work environment, that will enable a qualified applicant or employee with a disability to participate in the application process or to perform essential job functions.
- Federal law requires employers to provide a reasonable accommodation to qualified people with disabilities.

What Is a Reasonable Accommodation? (Slide 3 of 3)

If you need a reasonable accommodation to apply for a job or to perform your job, ask to speak to the employer's Affirmative Action Compliance Officer. Examples of reasonable accommodations include:

- Making a change to the application process or work procedures,
- Providing documents in an alternate format,
- Using a sign language interpreter, or
- Using specialized equipment.
